The fund is a short-term public debt constant net asset value (CNAV) money market fund (MMF). An investment in the fund, or any MMF, is not a guaranteed investment. An investment in a MMF is different from an investment in a bank deposit. The amount invested in a MMF is capable of fluctuation. The fund does not rely on external support for guaranteeing the liquidity of the fund or stabilizing the NAV per share of the fund. An investor in the fund bears the risk of loss of principal.

For money market funds: You could lose money by investing in the fund. Although the fund seeks to preserve the value of your investment at US$1.00 per share, it cannot guarantee it will do so. The fund may impose a fee upon sale of your shares or may temporarily suspend your ability to sell shares if the fund's liquidity falls below required minimums because of market conditions or other factors. An investment in the fund is not insured or guaranteed by the Federal Deposit Insurance Corporation or any other government agency. The fund's sponsor has no legal obligation to provide financial support to the fund, and you should not expect that the sponsor will provide financial support to the fund at any time.

Effective 21 March 2019, the fund's name was changed from Wells Fargo (Lux) Worldwide Fund – U.S. Dollar Short-Term Money Market Fund to Wells Fargo (Lux) Worldwide Fund – USD Government Money Market Fund and the fund's investment policies and strategies changed. Figures that cover periods prior to the fund's re-positioning on 21 March 2019 include performance under the fund's prior policies and strategies.

An investment in a money market fund is not insured or guaranteed by any government agency. Although the USD Government Money Market Fund seeks to preserve the value of your investment at US$1.00 per share, it is possible to lose money by investing in the fund.
